

THOMAS H. JACKSON

C.V.

Thomas H. Jackson, Distinguished University Professor and president of the University of Rochester from 1994 to 2005, holds faculty positions in the Simon Business School and in the University's Department of Political Science. Before he became Rochester's ninth president, Jackson was vice president and provost of the University of Virginia, which he first joined in 1988 as dean of Virginia's School of Law. He had been professor of law at Harvard from 1986 to 1988 and a faculty member at Stanford Law School from 1977 to 1986. A 1972 graduate of Williams College, Jackson earned his law degree from Yale in 1975. He first clerked for US District Court Judge Marvin E. Frankel in New York in 1975-76, and then for Supreme Court Justice (and, later, Chief Justice) William H. Rehnquist in 1976-77. Jackson served as Special Master for the US Supreme Court in a dispute involving every state in the country over the disposition of unclaimed dividends held by brokerage houses. Jackson is the author of THE LOGIC AND LIMITS OF BANKRUPTCY LAW, bankruptcy and commercial law texts used in law schools across the country, and numerous articles on bankruptcy and commercial law. Recently, his scholarship has focused on financial institutions and bankruptcy, including Bankruptcy Code Chapter 14: A Proposal, in BANKRUPTCY NOT BAILOUT: A SPECIAL CHAPTER 14 (Kenneth Scott & John Taylor (eds.) Hoover Press 2012) and Dynamic Resolution of Large Financial Institutions, 2 Harv. Bus. L. Rev. 435 (2012) (with David Skeel). Jackson recently served as co-chair of a working group that produced Too Big to Fail: The Path to a Solution (Bipartisan Policy Center 2013), and serves as a member of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation's Systemic Resolution Advisory Committee.
